

Tomorrow the Last Day Greatest Bargains of All

Of course, our stock is "shot to pieces." We have only remnants of the great array of bargains offered when the sale began.

To clean up, we shall put prices that will move scores of articles to-morrow—the last day.

Fifty per cent. on some. Cost not considered.

We can't urge you to come to-morrow. The crowd will probably be greater than we can care for as we should like. But if you do come, you will find bargains the like of which you never saw before—all guaranteed first-class Furniture, Lace Curtains and Rugs—possibly just what you want.

Today's Specials

Lace Curtains and Wall Papers

The prices have been made so low upon scores of patterns of Lace Curtains and bundle lots of Wall Papers that they will melt away like snowflakes in California.

Remember, this sale closes to-morrow night.

TALK OF THE TOWN

New school dresses, 6 to 14 years, at Vaughan's.

Telephone Bell & Houston for your typewriter supplies.

Fuller C. Smith of St. Albans was a business visitor in the city yesterday and to-day.

Lee Shepard of Boston, a former resident of Barre, is spending several days with relatives in this vicinity and South Barre.

Edgar F. Hanson, the Belfast, Me., editor, who argued local option with Rev. Clarence T. Wilson of Topeka, Kans., in the opera house on the evening of Jan. 30, is to tilt his lance at the Perry bill before an audience in St. Albans this evening. Editor Hanson has issued a challenge to anyone in the vicinity of St. Albans to debate the prohibition question with him.

Red Men of Iroquois tribe, No. 16, have completed arrangements for an appropriate Washington's birthday observance in Clan Gordon hall this evening. Guests of the local tribe will include many members of Winnetka council, Degree of Potawatomi, as well as officers of the state Red Men's organization. A bountiful banquet of corn and venison with a wealth of side dishes is to be served in the earlier part of the evening. There will be singing and enough of speech-making to give the visiting Red Men an opportunity and then there will be dancing, with intermission at 11:30 o'clock.

Ice harvesters in the employ of J. M. Ward & Son, who have been engaged since the last cold snap in cutting ice in the South Barre mill pond, are nearing the end of their task, although the advent of warmer weather may necessitate a postponement of the final clean-up. Ice of prime quality has been cut this week in large quantities, the product being clear and of a thickness of 13 and 14 inches. All of the large ice houses owned by the cutting firm have been filled, and very little storage ice remains to be cut. Farmers from Barre Town and surrounding towns have worn a path smooth to the mill pond in their desire to secure plenty of ice before the spring thaws begin.

What is believed to be the final chapter in the clothes-line thefts uncovered by the officers this week, was written Thursday afternoon, when John Abbey of Branch street pleaded guilty to receiving and concealing stolen goods when arraigned before Magistrate H. W. Scott in city court. On the recommendation of Grand Juror William Wishart, the respondent was sentenced to serve four months in the house of correction at Rutland with a maximum of five months, a sentence similar in length to the term meted out to one of the two respondents arrested earlier in the week on larceny charges. Mrs. John Abbey, who is said to use alleged clairvoyant powers under the assumed name of Madame Cora, was allowed to go on her own recognizance, the case against her being continued indefinitely. Abbey and his wife were placed under arrest Thursday forenoon.
